There has been some question as to the exact time that the bill was passed creating Wasatch County. By writing to Mr. Velling a present Sec. of State we learned that the bill was passed in January, 1862 creating Wasatch County from part of Utah County, and that the legislature adjourned January 17, 1862. John Witt was appointed probate judge and authorized to appoint officers for the county.

In the summer of 1862 some kind of arrangements had been made to have mail brought from Kimball's mail station to Heber in the summer months. Isaac O. Wall carried that mail on horseback about twice a week in the summer time for some years, but there was no mail service in the winter.

In the fall of 1870 Joseph S. Murdock returned to Heber from his mission in southern Utah and he got a contract to carry U. S. Mail from Provo to Echo by way of Heber and Kamas twice each week winter and summer.

It was at this time that John Galager was appointed postmaster in Heber. Later Mose Cluff got the contract and carried the mail some years. Henry McMullin Sr. became postmaster, then John Duncan. In 1899 when the D.&R. G. railroad came into Heber they got the contract for carrying mail on a daily service schedule. Richard Bridge then became postmaster.

T. S. Watson began to run a daily stage between Heber and Park City about this time and later Joseph S. Murdock and sons and still later Luke and Hatch run the stage to Park City. Finally E. J. Duke bought out the Luke and Hatch and applied for a daily contract to carry the mail between Heber and Park City. E. J. Duke got this contract to carry and has carried the mail since that time as a Star Route contractor. His last contract was under bid by Ben Murdock in 1946 and he carried his last mail June 30, 1946.

About this time Fred Hays was Postmaster for a short time followed by John A. Smith who served for 16 years. Then Daniel McMullin for some six or seven years and Guy Duke then served as Acting Postmaster until Maranda Smith Young was appointed in 1924. Mrs. Young served until February 19, 1936.

HEBER M. RASBAND

Heber M. Rasband was appointed acting postmaster February 19, 1936 and as Postmaster June 25, 1936 and is still serving, June, 1965.

MIDWAY, UTAH

Maomie Alice Vail Burgener was born April 5, 1889, at Midway, Utah. Her parents, John Riley Vail and Alice White Vail moved to Thayne, Wyoming when she was real young. Then they moved to the Yellowstone Park where her father helped to clear brush and make way for the Mammoth Hotel that was built later close to the Old Faithful Geyser.

Her first schooling was at the Big Horn Basin now called Byron, Wyoming. Later they moved to the Teton Basin where her father built a home at Chapin Fremont Co., Idaho. They lived here for eleven years.

They then moved to Midway, Utah where she met and married George A. Burgener. They were blessed with three children, all girls. Mrs. Burgener was appointed Postmaster by H. Hays, July 15, 1921.

It was a small fourth class office, but it advanced to almost triple in size and on July 1, 1945 it advanced to third class and Mrs. Burgener was re-appointed by Harry S. Truman as Postmaster November 17, 1945.

The town owned the building. When they decided to remove the building and build a larger building the Post Office was moved a block away until the building was completed. Then the office was moved back in a part of it and Mrs. Burgener was permitted to live in the back part of the building until she retired April 30, 1959. She was Postmaster for 38 years.

She purchased a home $\frac{1}{2}$ block from the Post Office where at present she takes care of her home and yard and raises beautiful flowers.

Mrs. Burgener was a Charter Member of the National Association of Postmasters. She never missed a state convention and has attended seven National Conventions. She enjoyed her work as Postmaster very much and says she misses the visits she had with her friends and neighbors since she retired.

Kay Probst was born and reared in Midway, Utah. When people ask us where it got its name, we just say it's such a pretty little town, we feel like we're Midway to Heaven. Kay married a gal (NaDene) from across the valley and they are the proud parents of three daughters and three sons.

Kay received his appointment as Postmaster June 21, 1963 and loves every minute of his work. He enjoys meeting people and is a special friend to every little kid in town.

The office is in a good location. Right in the middle of town and on the same block with the school, the town offices and recreation hall, and the Midway 2nd Ward Chapel. At present it is a third class office, but is steadily increasing in volume.

Prior to becoming Postmaster, Kay owned and operated a dairy farm. He has served his country in the U.S. Navy, filled a L.D.S. Mission in Canada. He worked in the Bishopric in our ward for nine years and is presently serving in his tenth year on the High Council in Wasatch Stake.

WALLSBURG, UTAH

The town of Wallsburg is located about fourteen miles southeast of Heber City, Utah and has about three hundred persons living there.

It was named after William Madison Wall, a native of North Carolina, who during his lifetime was an explorer, colonizer, Military officer, political official and church leader.

William Madison Wall joined the L.D.S. Church at the age 21 and came to the Utah Territory in 1850 as a Captain of 50 people. He also assisted in organizing the Mormon Battalion.

He first settled in Provo, Utah where he was appointed Marshall and then later appointed Sheriff of Utah County.

His term as Sheriff was often bullet punctuated, since the friction between Mormons and anti-mormon was high, and federal troops, commanded by General Johnston, was also stationed in Utah County.

Wall was also one of the most skillful Indian negotiators among the Mormons.

It was 1860 that William M. Wall moved his family and all their belonging to what the Indians called Round Valley. A valley practically enclosed by mountains and was an ideal place to graze cattle because of the protective hills.

By the winter of 1864-65 it became a permanent settlement, with five families staying there that winter. The men had been so busy building homes etc. that they failed to get enough hay put up for their cattle to winter on. Before spring broke their livestock were on the verge of starvation. They diverted the warm water of Spring Creek out on the meadows, melting the two feet deep snow from the grass and saved their stock.

The early settlers soon found the water supply was sufficient and that the community needed more people to build socially as well as financially, so more people moved in.

Now and then the Indians stole some cattle from the people, but generally away from other settlements in the valley so in 1865 a fort was built for protection and twenty families moved into it.

A meeting house was built inside the fort. It was built out of cottonwood logs from the river bottoms and mud was put into the cracks.

When the valley was first settled, the farming was done on a cooperative basis. All men worked together on the land and crops divided at harvest time. Later the land was divided in 20 to 40 acre tracts and the settlers applied for homesteading rights.

The Ward was organized July 12, 1877 and Bishop William Nuttal was appointed. The people began looking for a suitable name for their Ward and Community. It was unanimously decided that Round Valley from henceforth should be Wallsburg in honor of the illustrious William Madison Wall, founder and first citizen of the community.

The first Post Office was directed by William E. Nuttal and the mail was carried by horseback and carriage by Dixon Greer.

The following served as postmasters in this order, William E. Nuttal, George Dabbling, Lucina Boren, Don Biglow, Steven D. Greer, Della Mecham, Orpha Wall, Alice Graham and Phyllis Davis.

At present the town has changed much. Consolidation of the schools took the school from the community. The children now attend school at Heber City, Utah.

The dairy farms have disappeared one at a time until only three left in the valley and the range permits have been sold until few beef cattle are raised as used to be.

The farms that people own now are used as a secondary income. Few make their sole living from farming. They have jobs outside the town and use their farm as supplementary income or even a hobby. Other hobbies are the raising and showing of pure bred horses, mainly quarter horses and some a palooza are raised.

The valley is surrounded by mountains that are beautiful to see any time of the year but in autumn the beauty is undescrivable. One has to see it to believe.

History of the Postmasters---

He helped put on operettas and concerts. He organized and directed a brass band called the silver Cornet Band. The band was in demand for dances and entertaining being the only one of its kind in the county at the time. During the Spanish American War, they used to go to Heber and serenade the boys when they left for the Army.

Lucina Boren was born March 11, 1841 in Lee Co., Iowa. She remembered, when a child, of sitting on the Profit Joseph Smiths lap many times. and his brother.

She made the long journey across the plains and helped support herself by working after she came to Utah. She also learned to spin and weave very well.

She met and married William Jasper Boren. They had 13 children.

She was the first school teacher in Wallsburg and also was Postmaster. She was a hard organist for six years. As no doctors were close she was midwife for several years and had the opportunity to deliver 503 babies.

Don L. Biglow was born at Heber City, Utah May 22, 1866. He married Annie Marie Boren April 29, 1891 in the Manti Temple and they had 11 children.

He loved to read and his recreation was fishing and dancing which he enjoyed very much.

He was a farmer and also postmaster of Wallsburg. He retired from farming in 1939. After which he spent the rest of his life working in the Salt Lake and St. George Temple. He died July 5, 1954.

Stephen D. Greer was born January 13, 1874 at Wallsburg, Utah. He married Susanna Gardener on October 23, 1895 in the Salt Lake City Temple.

He served a mission for the L.D.S. Church at Indianapolis, Indiana.

He received his early education in the Wallsburg School. At the age of sixteen, attended the Brigham Young Academy, attending from 1890 to 1895.

After his mission he engaged in the cattle and later he owned a small general merchandising store at Wallsburg. He was postmaster for several years.

Through out his life he was very interested in his community, did much good for it. He was responsible for obtaining the first school bus for hauling high school students to Heber City. He was largely responsible for getting his home town electrical power, and culinary water supply in most of the homes in the community. He also was responsible for improving the community cemetery.

He was a great reader of good books. He was a very good neighbor and was always kind. He moved to Provo in 1954 where his wife died January 24, 1956. He lived by himself in Provo until his death May 7, 1961. They had four children Carl, Thelma, Hope and Grant.

Mary Della Mechem was born December 31, 1886 in Draper, Utah. She was the oldest girl in the family, there being seven children.

When she was a young girl the family moved to Charleston, Utah, where her father was a section foreman for the railroad and her mother ran a hotel.

Later they moved to Wallsburg, Utah. Here her father engaged in dairying and general farming.

She married Wallace Mechem and was the mother of six children.

She was Primary President for a number of years, a Sunday School teacher and a Relief Society Officer.

She was Postmaster at Wallsburg for nearly five years (1916-21) at which time they moved to Orem so the children could attend high school.

She did a great amount of Temple work for the L.D.S. Church.

Her hobby was raising beautiful flowers, sewing for her children and grandchildren, helping in times of sickness.

She was a widow for over thirty years. To complete rearing her family, she became the lunch supervisor at the Lincoln High school in Orem for about 12 years.

She had the art of making numerous friends. At the time of her death she had 47 grandchildren and 37 great grandchildren.

Orpha ~~Sweat~~ Wall was born in Wallsburg and received her education at the (Greer) Wallsburg Central School.

Her husband is Marvie Wall. They were married September 11, 1912 in the Salt Lake Temple and had three children, Wendall, Russell and Ruby.

She also has 14 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

I, Orpha Wall, was made acting postmaster after Della Mechem. She was going to move to Provo and ask if I would just be an acting postmaster until someone else could be found. I consented after much thought and afterward decided to take the test and was appointed Postmaster. I acted in this capacity for 21 years and 7 months.

I have enjoyed my retirement very much as it gave me time to do the things I'd always wanted to do and didn't have the time. I love to read, work on my geneology and in my garden and flowers.

I love the town of Wallburg and think it is very beautiful.

Alice Graham was appointed acting postmaster at Wallburg, Utah, December 11, 1942, and served until January 31, 1962. Her permanent appointment was April, 1943.

As she always liked working with books, she enjoyed this position very much. She also enjoyed seeing and knowing all the young folk that came for the mail. She knew each by name. It was quite tiring but she enjoyed every minute of it.

She got to know many postmasters as she attended many State and National Conventions. These postmasters all seemed like brothers and sisters. She doubts if there is a more friendly group of workers any place. She has attended most all the State Conventions and National Convention at San Francisco and met President John F. Kennedy, who always seemed so nice. She also attended National Conventions at Los Angeles, Washington D. C., Miami Beach, Denver and one in Hawaii. All of these were very interesting.

March 5, 1955 she was awarded an Honorary Golden Gleaner award which she treasures a lot. She was also given a gold watch some years ago for services in the church.

She was born in Center Creek, Wasatch County, Utah and attended school there. She attended high school at Heber City, Utah.

She married James Graham and they were parents of seven children, all of whom have worked in the church.

Her hobbies are making things such as flowers, quilts, sweaters, stockings and crocheting.

She has been active in music in her church and has helped play for many dances. She has been a hard organist for about 35 years.

She missed the Post Office very much when she retired and since then has done considerable traveling. She especially enjoyed the convention and sight seeing in the Hawaiian Islands.

Orpha Wall

Phyllis Davis of Wallsburg was named Acting Postmaster January 31 and received her permanent appointment December 7, 1962.

I received my elementary schooling at the Central School in Wallsburg. Later I attended Junior and Senior High School at Wasatch High School in Heber City.

My husband's name is Roy E. Davis, and we have three children: Elaine Boyden, Lenn and Irene Davis.

I also have been blessed with two grandsons, Michael- 8, and Brent - 5.

My family kept me much too busy and interested to seek steady work while we were young. I had some part time work acting as leave replacement for my mother, Alice Graham, who was postmaster at Wallsburg for 19 years.

Through this work I made my decision to make application for this position upon her retirement.

Crocheting, quilt-making and reading histories are my minor hobbies, but the thing I like to do most is be around children--especially children who haven't been blessed with health as most of us are.

I love to tell them stories and send small gifts to make them happy.

Our town is located about three miles southeast of Deer Creek Reservoir. It is a round valley surrounded by the most beautiful mountains.

Most families raise a small garden in the summer time. We have a number of farms.

Some residents of our town raise pure-bred quarter horses, as well as the Appaloosa horse. They have taken many prizes at state fairs and horse shows.

I like my work as Postmaster very much.
